SAML. J. JUNE 11, 1873

SEVENTY CHILDREN MUST BE SMACKED.

In her little bed we laid her, After getting you know what,
Dealt out to that naughty Ada,
In a very special spot.
Yes, the nursemaid told her truly,
She would catch it for her cheek,
And her conduct quite unruly, Misbehaving all the week.

When her mother went out shopping, Meaning next to do the block, Missie was employed in dropping into rows, like one o'clock.
First, she punched her little brother, Next destroyed a new chicken,
When they said they'd tell her mother Of her awful goings on.

This, of course, we couldn't pardon, When through angry tears she cried, She'd cut up like a "Dolly Varden," Just to make her doll a bride;
And when spoken to about it,
And why she was so wild,
All our sympathies embittered, By grimacing at her side.

In her little bed we laid her,
After getting something hot, Though she cried, and begged, and prayed her Dearest mama, "please to not."
Hence we may derive a moral—Naughty children must be smacked, When they're mischievous or quarrel With each other—that's a fact.

"It Must Come."

A California humorist in London writes to the San Francisco Bulletin: The American journalist—the San Francisco or New York educated reporter—must in time come to London and start a paper. It must come with all its sensational headings, its reckless humor and barbed wit, its unscrupulousness, its fire, fun and frolic. It must bristle daily with paragraphs, thus:
The Lord Mayor's wig was awry today.

A new whiskey-mill has been started near Hyde Park in wearing out his old clothes.
It must expose all sorts of frauds and abuses. It must turn inside out of the hospitals, jails, prisons and almshouses.
It must have a full staff of fighting and Paul Pry editors and reporters. It must have in reserve a contingent of a million of dollars to defend libel suits. Of course, it wouldn't take at first. English dignity would frown severely upon it, and it would not above these trifles here. They but pretend to be.
The least street disturbance instantly collects its crowd. Not vagabonds either. What men see with their eyes they like to see in print. They are hungry thus to be woke up. Ten years would educate them up to the sensation paper standard. It must come. It must be a combined effort of vigor, energy, talent, audacity and capital force itself on these people. It must be a practical joke. "I am here; I'm going to stay. I'm a new animal, a new entertainment, a creature fresh from the prairies and Sierras; fearless as the grizzly, swift as the eagle, venomous as the rattlesnake.
I am a comet. Destiny shapes my orbit.
I am among you. I must shine, dazzle, coruscate. You will be shocked and scared at first. In time, you will learn to like me."

EARLY RISING.—All the talk about early rising is moonshine. The habit of turning out of bed in the middle of the night suits some people; let them enjoy it. But it is only folly to lay down a general rule upon the subject. Some men are fit for nothing all day after they have risen early every morning. Their energies are deadened, their imaginations are heavy, their spirits are depressed. It is said you can work so well early in the morning. Some people can, but others can work best at night; others again, in the afternoon. Long trial and experiment form the only conclusive tests on these points. As for getting up early, because Professor Gammon has written letters to the papers proving the necessity of it, let none be goose enough to do it. We all know the model man, aged 80: "I invariably rise at five; I work three hours, take a light breakfast—namely, a cracker and a pinch of salt—work five hours more; never smoke, never drink anything but barley water; eat no dinner, and go to bed at six in the evening." If anybody finds that donkey sort of life suits him, by all means let him continue it.
But few people would care to live to 80 on those terms. If a man cannot get well withered and crumpled on easier terms than those, it is almost as well that he depart before he is a nuisance to himself and a bore to everybody else.

THE PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.—The farmers' movement in the West is becoming a serious perplexity to party leaders. The number of granges is multiplying rapidly, and the disposition to mingle in political contests dis-fairs to completely change the relations of the old parties. An official statement of the granges organized previously to May 13 gives the following interesting facts: Arkansas 15, California 8, Georgia 16, Illinois 431, Indiana 142, Iowa 1,507, Kansas 128, Michigan 24, Minnesota 219, Mississippi 113, Missouri 245, Nebraska 190, Ohio 47, South Carolina 118, Tennessee 13, Vermont 23, Wisconsin 140—making an organization in the United States of 3,577 granges, with an aggregate membership of over 2,000,000.

The London Times sarcastically points to the fact that France has just paid over to Germany ten millions sterling, without making the slightest fuss about it, while England cannot pay a third of that sum to the United States without resorting to every possible delay, and then borrowing money in order to do it.

An effort is being made among some would-be fashionable ladies to revive the blonde fashion. Dyes are not used, but a fine and injurious powder known as "blonde dust" is.
